

Introduction of IGCSE Programme at The Heritage School (THS)

Chairman's Message

A warm welcome to all members of Kalyan Bharti Trust and their families.

In June 2013, another feather was added to the cap of Heritage Group of Institutions. We got the approval from the Cambridge Board to commence IGCSE Programme.

Another significant happening during the period was the renaming of Management Education Centre, Heritage Institute of Technology (HIT-K) to Heritage Business School, thereby making it a separate entity.

I would also like to express my thanks to all members of the Trust, Management, Faculty and Staff for their dedication, hardwork, creativity and innovation that has helped us to scale greater heights of success. I believe and trust that Heritage Group of Institutions will continue to prosper and serve the country and add to its glory.

Swastika Mukhopadhyay (left) from The Heritage School made it to the Super Six with her yummy Malai Chicken, Jeera Rice and Raita! Akurtti Singh (right) of Mahadevi Birla World Academy whipped up Four Season Chicken and Lachha Paratha. "Why's it called Four Season?" quizzed chef Sharad Dewan of The Park. "It's a little of all four — sweet, sour, spicy and salty," replied the Class XII student who had been cooking "every alternate day" at home to practise. "When I heard the theme for today was Indian, I was a little disheartened because I cook Continental better but I've tried my best," she added.

NEET topper from city eyeing place in AIIMS

Shoeb Khan | 1308

Jairpur: Kolkata's Ayush Gosai (18) has topped the National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET) for medical and BDS courses. He is one of four students from Kolkata — known for its coaching prowess — who registered their names in the top 10. Ayush, who studied till Class X in Kolkata's Heritage School, scored 691 out of 720. "I expected to do well. I am happy that my hard work has yielded results," he said.

NEET was held for the first time on May 5 and replaced medical entrance exams such as AIPMT, Armed Forces Medical College, Banaras Hindu University and other state-level PMTs. Some 6,50,000 candidates took the exam and 3,66,317 qualified.

Ayush is spoilt for choice and can opt for any prestigious medical college across India. He is now eyeing an AIIMS seat. "I want to go for the best," he told TOI from Mumbai, where he is attending an orientation-selection camp for the biology olympiad at Homi Bhabha Centre for Science Education. His recent success has not come as a surprise to the family that has seen him excel in academics since childhood. He is among the few in India to get selected to two olympiads — chemistry and biology — in the category for Classes XI and XII. He secured the second position in the All India Kishore Vidyarthi Krishi Prashasthi competition.

"He has been participating since childhood in the medical camps organized by Akhil Bhartiya Banawali Kalyan Ashram, an NGO providing healthcare to the poor and needy. The camps made him passionate about medical science and medicine," said father Bibek Goyni, who runs a business in Bagdaiat. Ayush wants to be a neurosurgeon and later take up research in the field. "It has vast scope for research and development. Neurosurgeries are expensive. I want to bring innovations in this field to make treatment accessible to all sections," Ayush said.

His success is well-earned. After Class X, he joined Allen Career Institute in Kolkata and scored 81% in his Class XII exams. A low score of 66 in Hindi affected the overall percentage.

Ayush is popular with his peers and is known as a 'mentor' for always helping classmates and juniors. A cricket enthusiast, he always keeps a ball with him and plays with it to de-stress during exam preparations. He occasionally watches Bangali and Hindi movies with friends. Ayush's forefathers migrated to Kolkata from Jhunjhunu district in the 1800s to explore business opportunities.

The painting depicts a group of people, including a man and a woman, who are helping a person who is lying on the ground.
